Currently, I work at Vissers, a sports law firm in the Netherlands, specialized in solving legal issues arising in the sports world. This includes reviewing and drafting commercial contracts and helping to build sustainable partnerships.

Furthermore, I followed the master in Sports Management and Legal Skills at ISDE in collaboration with FC Barcelona. Here we focused on several business aspects of the sports business with a legal touch, including but not limited to data in football, partnership activation, media rights packages and brand strategies.

In Sint Maarten I have had the pleasure of working as legal counsel at the law firm Merx Legal Services. By providing legal expertise, I have gained useful experience regarding the handling of complex legal issues. This included representing the police union in their negotiations with the Council of Ministers of St. Maarten.

During May 2022, I completed my master's degree in International Business Law at Tilburg University. During my master's thesis, I investigated the impact of the UEFA Financial Fair Play Regulation on mergers and acquisitions in European soccer. This experience, together with the great contribution of Sefton Perry, head of the Intelligence Centre at UEFA, stimulated my desire to further develop my skills in this field. Accordingly, in addition to my full-time job, I am finishing the online master's program "Sports Management and Legal Skills in collaboration with FC Barcelona.

In the course of my masters, I did an internship at Greenberg Traurig and I also did an internship at Houthoff, where I was able to do support work in billion-dollar deals.

In July 2021, I successfully completed my bachelor's degree in Global Law. The combination of a broad international orientation and the ethical, moral and legal aspects of international law made it a "pleasure" for me to study every day. Within this program, I chose a minor in Dutch law and took additional courses to obtain my civil effect, which allows me to become a lawyer in the Netherlands.
